FROM THE SECRETARIAT

Dear Friends,

As the Church enters the Season of Advent, we begin the new liturgical year and prepare for the great Christmas event. This is a time when we remain vigilant and prepare for the coming of the Lord. It is a time of expectation and of hope. The celebration of life as a gift from God is captured in that vivid Christmas image of the nativity.

But at the time of issuing this monthly briefing, Van Tuong Nguyen faces the death penalty in Singapore. His execution is scheduled for this Friday.

Van Nguyen's appeal for clemency was rejected by the President of Singapore in late October. He was arrested in Singapore in 2002 after police found him carrying packages of heroin. In March 2004 he was sentenced to death and the Court of Appeal rejected his appeal against the death sentence in October 2004.

Many have appealed to the Singaporean Government to reconsider granting clemency. Pope John Paul II requested clemency in February this year. Again, an appeal was made by Pope Benedict XVI in November. At their meeting in Sydney last week, the Australian Catholic Bishops Conference called on the Prime Minister of Singapore, Lee Hsien Loong to save Van Nguyen's life.

The correspondence, which was delivered to the Singaporean High Commission in Canberra last Friday called for "a compassionate response to the dire situation of Van Tuong Nguyen. He is a young man with no prior criminal conviction, with good prospects for reform. With great respect, we appeal to you and your Government to grant clemency to this young man."

Archbishop Francis Carroll, President of the Bishops' Conference said, "The death sentence of a young man like this is heart-rending, I think. It's simply he's a young man, he had no crime record and there was a great chance of his rehabilitation." Cardinal George Pell said, "I deplore the decision of the Singapore government to proceed with this execution. Illegal drugs are a scourge, but the punishment in Van's case is completely disproportionate to the crime he has committed."

Bishop Christopher Saunders, Chairman of the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council has also sent an appeal to the Prime Minister of Singapore saying, "[Van Nguyen] is a young man with no prior criminal conviction who does not deserve to lose his life for this mistake."

It must be acknowledged that drugs are an evil and that states have a duty to legislate against their use and trafficking. However, nothing can justify the use of the death penalty.

There are many people facing the death penalty around the world and many nations that continue to use it. The death penalty is an offence against the dignity and sanctity of all human life, which must be respected even in those who have done great evil. Every human being has the right to life. Use of the death penalty undermines respect for life, it is cruel and unnecessary, and it denies those who have committed crimes the chance to reform. Nothing can justify the use of such a punishment and, in the case of Van Nguyen, it is clearly disproportionate.

At the time of issuing this Briefing there appears little hope that the execution of Van Nguyen will be stopped. However, we must hold what hope there is and pray for an intervention to save this man's life.

Many Australians have been pursuing all available avenues to plead on his behalf. Organisations such as the Rome-based Community of Sant'Egidio have suggested letters and contact details for people wishing to send an appeal (http://www.santegidio.org/en/pdm/news/ap_van.htm). Amnesty International also has resources and suggested text (http://www.amnesty.org.au/Act_now/action_centre/singapore_urge_authorities_to_stop_the_execution_of_van_tuong_nguyen).

The fax and email details for the Office of the Prime Minister of Singapore are – fax: 0015 65 6332 8983, email: lee_hsien_loong@pmo.gov.sg

The fax and email details of the High Commissioner for Singapore in Canberra are – fax: (02) 6273 9823, email: singapore_hc@bigpond.com

Public events and vigils will be occurring around the country to pray for Van Nguyen and his family. Fr Peter Norden SJ at the Parish of St Ignatius in Richmond, (<http://www.ignatius.org.au/>) is holding a prayer vigil through the week. Fr Peter says, "during, or at the conclusion of each Mass, we will recite together the Mercy Prayer to the Madonna, that the 'right to life' of Van Nguyen will be respected by the Singaporean Government."

Let us join in that prayer for Van Tuong Nguyen, his family and loved ones.

MERCY PRAYER

*Remember, O most loving Virgin Mary, that never was it known in any age,
that anyone who fled to your protection,
implored your help
or sought your intercession was abandoned.*

*Inspired with this confidence,
therefore, we fly to you,
O virgin of virgins, our Mother.*

*To you do we come,
before you we stand,
sinful and sorrowful.*

*Do not, O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise our prayers,
but graciously hear and grant them. Amen*

CURRENT ISSUES/RESOURCES

THE DEATH PENALTY – WHY CATHOLICS SHOULD OPPOSE IT

Some resources produced over recent years about the death penalty and the Church's opposition to it are suggested. In October 2000, the ACSJC issued a Briefing Paper, "Why the ACSJC Opposes the Death Penalty" (available at: http://www.acsjc.org.au/content/publications/positionpapers/2000_10_19the_death_penalty_why_catholics_should_oppose_it.html)

In 2000, Dr Michael Costigan produced Catholic Social Justice Series paper No.40, "The Death Penalty: Why Catholics should oppose it". The excellent paper traces the development of Church teaching and action during the pontificate of Pope John Paul II and shows that the Church now places the death penalty firmly within the context of pro-life advocacy on such issues as abortion and euthanasia. Opponents of the death penalty, while fully sympathising with the sufferings of victims of violent crimes, accept the teaching, that the dignity of human life must never be taken away, even in the case of someone who has done great evil. (refer:

http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au/content/publications/social_justice_papers.html). To order call: (02) 9956 5811

The Community of Sant'Egidio is part of the world-wide effort to abolish the death penalty. The Community is a Church public lay association which began in Rome in 1968, in the period following the Second Vatican Council, and today has more than 50,000 members in more than 70 countries throughout the world. For further information visit: <http://www.santegidio.org/en/index.html>

The US Catholic Conference of Bishops have a "Catholic Campaign to End the Use of the Death Penalty". Visit their website for more information and a copy of the recent Pastoral Statement, "A Culture of Life and the Penalty of Death":

ANTI-TERRORISM LEGISLATION

On 28 October the ACSJC issued a media statement calling for more time for the community to debate the Federal Government's proposed Anti-Terror laws. Bishop Christopher Saunders, ACSJC Chairman, said, "No-one would deny the Government's responsibility to ensure that Australia's security arrangements are capable of detecting and addressing potential terrorist attacks. It is essential that such arrangements adequately respect and protect the rights of all Australians. This legislation will be complex and it could have far-reaching consequences for the civil and political rights that all Australians presently enjoy. To push for the approval of the Bill before Christmas will undermine proper Parliamentary review and rule out the possibility of adequate public input... It is a concern that these powers are likely to be considered without the level of scrutiny and improvement that earlier anti-terror Bills were exposed to during 2002 and 2003." (refer: <http://www.acsjc.org.au/>)

The Australian Catholic Bishops Conference has issued a statement saying, "our police and intelligence agencies deserve the full support of the law and the community in their efforts to stop terrorist acts before they occur. But we must be vigilant that such laws do not undermine those very freedoms that terrorists seek to take from us. A balance is needed."
(<http://www.acbc.catholic.org.au/bishops/2005112514.htm>)

The ACSJC lodged a submission on the Anti-Terrorism Bill (No.2) 2005 with the Senate Legal and Constitutional Legislation Committee. The submission draws on Church teaching to: condemn terrorism in the strongest of terms; recognise the responsibility of the Government to protect its people from terrorist attacks; and to urge Government to ensure any measures it takes are balanced and do not unduly undermine civil and political rights. The submission calls for the Attorney General to reveal to the Inquiry the investigations he says show the proposed measures will not undermine Australia's obligations under International Law. The submission forwards a range of 'submissions' regarding particular provisions relating to the proposed control orders, preventative detention orders and other aspects of the Bill. The submission can be accessed at:

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS CHANGES

Following the tabling of the Workplace Relations legislation in October, the Australian Catholic Commission for Employment Relations (ACCER) expressed its concerns that the Bill did not appear to address fundamental issues of fairness and balance which the Church had raised. The five major areas of concern include the minimum wage, unfair dismissals, minimum conditions, workplace bargaining, and the role of the Australian Industrial Relations Commission. Mr John Ryan expressed concern that new employees in workplaces, especially industrially vulnerable and young workers without bargaining power, could be particularly exposed to the offering of reduced employment arrangements.
(<http://www.accer.asn.au/news/index.html>)

At their plenary meeting in Sydney last week, the Catholic Bishops called for changes to the workplace legislation to help moderate the impact on the poor, the vulnerable and families.

The Bishops question whether the proposed national system of employment regulation includes the objectives of employment growth, fair remuneration and security of employment and whether it promotes truly cooperative workplace relations and ensures the protection of the poor and the vulnerable. "We are concerned that the proposed legislation, as it is presently drafted, does not provide a proper balance between the rights of employers and employees in several respects," their statement says. (refer:

<http://www.acbc.catholic.org.au/bishops/2005112512.htm>)

ACCER has prepared a Briefing Paper on the Commonwealth Government's proposed changes to Workplace Relations in Australia. This document can be accessed at: <http://www.accer.asn.au/news/index.html>

While the legislation has provided important and necessary legal safeguards for victims of racism over the past 30 years, addressing racism needs to go beyond the legal framework.

DECEMBER SOCIAL JUSTICE CALENDAR - VATICAN COUNCIL II

Pope John XXIII announced his intention of summoning the Council in January, 1959, within three months of his election, in order to: "Increase the fervour and energy of Catholics, and to serve the needs of Christian people". He mentioned ways of achieving this, including: "Christian social activity must increase".

In Italian, he expressed his hope for the Council in one word, "Aggiornamento", meaning that the Church must be brought up to date, adapting itself to meet the challenged conditions of modern times. Using an expressive gesture, Pope John moved to a window and threw it open, to let in a draught of fresh air.

DECEMBER 7 40TH ANNIVERSARY OF GAUDIUM ET SPES

On this day in 1965, Pope Paul VI proclaimed the Pastoral Constitution on the Church in the Modern World, Gaudium et Spes.

4. The Church has always had the duty of scrutinizing the signs of the times and of interpreting them in the light of the Gospel.

65. Economic development must remain under the control of humankind and must not be left to the judgement of a few people or groups possessing too much economic power or of the political community alone or of certain more powerful nations. It is necessary, on the contrary, that at every level the largest possible number of people and, when it is a question of international relations, all nations have an active share in directing that development.

69. God intended the earth with everything contained in it for the use of all human beings and peoples. ... The right of having a share of earthly goods sufficient for oneself and one's family belongs to everyone. ... One is obliged to come to the relief of the poor and to do so not merely out of one's superfluous goods.

ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS

ADVENT

Advent commenced in late November, continues during December and is a time of preparation for Christmas.

As the journey to Christmas takes place, many people, events and symbols invite us to pause and remember the ongoing presence of God in our lives. With Mary, we can give birth to Jesus and carry him into our world. With the Shepherds, we can glorify and praise God for all we have heard and seen. With the Wise Men, we can search for a deeper understanding of Jesus and follow the star that leads us to him. With the Angels, we too can be messengers of God, singing the Good News.

BUY NOTHING CHRISTMAS MOVEMENT

This Movement challenges us to celebrate the true meaning of Christmas:

Somewhere around age 16 we start collecting numbers: student numbers, driver's licence numbers, Social Insurance Numbers and it goes on. When Mary and Joseph are ordered to join a Roman census it was so they could be numbered, sorted, tracked, and taxed. It was a way of reducing their humanity, making them cattle not people. The current title "consumer," brings to mind an image of a cow "consuming" so it can be used for milk or meat. Citizens, on the other hand, are thinking, acting and powerful beings. Consumers exist to buy and produce. Who, exactly, is "milking" us for all they can get? This Christmas, be a rebel: take back your identity as a person.

The Buy Nothing Christmas Movement offers the following alternatives:

- make a gift (write a card, paint a picture, mount a photo, bake some cookies, give some jam)
- recycle an old treasure (a book, fancy fountain pen, desk lamp from the basement)
- give a voucher (for babysitting, a home-cooked meal, walk in the park, ride on a bike, go to the movies)
- reduce needless consumer spending (give a gift to charity in someone's name, draw names instead of buying for everyone)
- have a meal together, start new traditions of sharing memories or making simple handmade cards
