FROM THE SECRETARIAT

Dear Friends,

The Australian Catholic Social Justice Council is now preparing for the launch of the Australia Catholic Bishops' 2006 Social Justice Sunday Statement in September. In this year's Statement, The Heart of Our Country – Dignity and justice for our Indigenous brothers and sisters, the Bishops reflect on the very important address of Pope John Paul II in 1986.

The ACSJC wishes to draw your attention to this event and some associated resources that will be available for order and/or downloading from the ACSJC website.

Social Justice Sunday will be celebrated on 24 September. The Statement will be launched in the week prior to Social Justice Sunday. Hard copies of the Statement can be ordered through the Australian Catholic Social Justice Council.

Background information and order forms for the Statement are now available on the ACSJC website. Included is a message from Archbishop Philip Wilson, President of the Australian Catholic Bishops' Conference, outlining the importance of this year's Statement.

THE PATH TO RECONCILIATION – TO THE HEART OF OUR COUNTRY

Twenty years ago in Alice Springs, Pope John Paul II addressed the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples of Australia as brothers and sisters with these words:

"I want to tell you right away how much the Church esteems and loves you, and how much she wishes to assist you in your spiritual and material needs."

Pope John Paul raised four important issues that day. He challenged all Australians to ensure the preservation of Indigenous cultures. He called us to seek and explore the points of agreement between Indigenous traditions and those of Jesus and all of his people. The Holy Father praised the way the Indigenous peoples had cared for the land. And, by naming past hurts and continuing injustices endured by Indigenous people, he confronted the national community of Australia with the need to move towards true reconciliation.

To the Indigenous peoples of Australia he said: "You are part of Australia and Australia is part of you. And the Church herself in Australia with not be fully the Church that Jesus wants her to be until you have made your contribution to her life and until that contribution has been joyfully received."

As Catholics, how have we supported Indigenous people to keep strong those elements of culture and history that they seek to preserve? Are we prepared to joyfully receive the contributions of Indigenous culture and tradition in our lives?

The full impact of Pope John Paul II's address in Alice Springs is still being realised as we continue to explore the path to reconciliation.

In their Social Justice Sunday Statement to all Catholics and people of good will, the Bishops consider many of the great achievements since these words were spoken in 1986, and what is still to be done by us all in taking up the challenges to work for reconciliation.

TO ORDER

Parishes, schools and groups can order printed copies (minimum of 10) from the ACSJC. Order form and cost details can be found on the ACSJC website:
<http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au>

SOCIAL JUSTICE SUNDAY - COMPLEMENTARY RESOURCES

The ACSJC produces a range of complementary resources to assist parish communities, schools and social justice groups to celebrate Social Justice Sunday.

The following resources will soon be available on the ACSJC website (<http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au>) and can be downloaded free of charge:

- * Social Justice Sunday Statement Summary
- * Social Justice Sunday Liturgy Notes
- * Teachers' Notes

Resources that are very useful in parishes and schools are the Social Justice Sunday Prayer Card and "Ten Steps" leaflet. These can be ordered from the ACSJC Secretariat on (02) 9956 5811.

Any assistance you can give in spreading the word about Social Justice Sunday would be greatly appreciated.

CURRENT ISSUES/RESOURCES

MEDIA RELEASE – "BROADER FOCUS FOR SUMMIT ON VIOLENCE SAYS BISHOP" – 23 June 2006

Bishop Christopher Saunders called on the Federal Minister for Indigenous Affairs to ensure an opportunity would be taken during the Government summit on violence and abuse in Indigenous communities, on Monday 26 June, to consider more than just the enforcement of law and order. "This is a unique opportunity to begin to deal with the root causes of the violence. It is not excusing or minimising terrible crimes to point out the deeper reasons why they occur," said Bishop Saunders. "Countless enquiries, surveys and media reports have told us about the deplorable conditions in communities such as Wadeye in the Northern Territory. They all show that a broad and decisive approach is needed. In particular, creative ways to ensure greater and more effective cooperation between State and Federal governments must be employed if those at the fringe of the economic boom-times are not to be further marginalised. By looking for ways that the governments of Australia can engage with communities suffering deprivation and ill-health, the summit could explore avenues to include Indigenous leaders in the process of recovery on the pathway to a just existence," Bishop Saunders said. HREOC PAPER – "ENDING FAMILY VIOLENCE IN ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER COMMUNITIES"

The Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission has released an overview paper of research and findings by the Commission on key challenges in addressing family violence and abuse in Indigenous communities which have been identified and reported by the Commission from 2001 to 2006. Tom Calma, the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Social Justice Commissioner, said: "The Commission's research demonstrates how violence relates to almost every aspect of policy making and service delivery in Indigenous communities. There is a need to adopt a holistic approach to address the causes and consequences of family violence. If we treat these issues simply as a law and order issue we will not achieve the necessary lasting improvements in the lives of Indigenous peoples." The paper identifies ten challenges: turning government commitments into action; Indigenous participation; support for Indigenous initiatives and networks; Human Rights education; preventing the stereotyping all Indigenous men as abusers; identifying successes; reasserting Indigenous cultural norms; robust accountability and monitoring mechanisms; changing mindsets; and targeting need. The paper can be accessed at:

NATIONAL ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER CATHOLIC COUNCIL – "DREAMING FROM THE HEART"

NATSICC is planning to celebrate the 20th Anniversary of Pope John Paul II's visit to Alice Springs by holding its National Assembly in the Red Centre, 2 – 7 October 2006. The original visit occurred in 1986 and was the occasion for one of the Pope's most important speeches, his address to Aboriginal people. For more information about this event and how you can be involved, and to find out about the Message Stick Relay in your part of Australia, visit:

HANDBOOK – "A NEW CHAPTER FOR HUMAN RIGHTS"

The International Service for Human Rights (ISHR) and Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung (FES) have developed a joint publication, "A new chapter for human rights: a handbook on issues of transition from the Commission on Human Rights to the Human Rights Council". This most valuable resource highlights the major issues of transition from the UN Commission on Human Rights to the new Human Rights Council. It briefly describes the old system under the Commission, what the Council needs to consider and do during its first year, some of the key issues, and existing suggestions and choices. The handbook also identifies the main questions around each of these issues to generate discussion and reflection on what NGOs and defenders hope can be achieved through the system, what features they think would be useful, and better options. The handbook is supplemented by a series of annexes containing key documents, compilations and tables of information that may be useful to readers. "A new chapter for human rights" can be downloaded from the ISHR's website – go to <http://www.ishr.ch/handbook>

TRAFFICKING IN PERSONS CLEARINGHOUSE

This Good Shepherd Social Justice Network webpage is an important access point for information on the global problem of trafficking in persons, which impacts particularly on women and children. The site hosts published and unpublished resources; information regarding projects aimed at combating trafficking; and substantial information on trafficking within, and initiatives aimed at eliminating, trafficking in persons in Australia and the Asia Pacific region. An NGO Shadow Report On Trafficked Women in Australia, produced by the religious congregations with Jennifer Burn and Frances Simmons and endorsed by many religious congregations and organisations, was submitted to the UN Committee for the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination Against Women. This report is available at the Clearinghouse website. Visit: <http://www.goodshepherd.com.au/justice/trafficking.html>

INTERNATIONAL DETENTION COALITION

The newly formed International Coalition on Detention (IDC) of Refugees, Asylum Seekers and Migrants is a coalition of non-governmental organisations, faith based groups, academics and individuals working around the world providing services, carrying out research and reporting, and doing advocacy and policy work on behalf of refugees, migrants, and asylum seekers. These groups and individuals have come together to form the coalition in order to share information and to promote best practices on the use of detention. The IDC aims to raise awareness of detention policies and practices and to promote the use of human rights standards and principles as they relate to the detention of refugees, asylum seekers and migrants. Visit the IDC website at: <http://www.idcoalition.org/portal/index.php>

SOCIAL ACTION OFFICE QLD – "PATCHWORK PROJECT"

Over recent months the Social Action Office (SAO) of the Conference of Leaders of Religious Institutes, Queensland has consulted with people involved in employment and welfare services, church and community based organisations, unions and employers. These consultations have formed the basis of a community project to monitor the impact and lived experience of the new industrial relations, individual contracting and welfare to work environments. You can participate in the project: by joining a 2 hour workshop of story sharing and recording in your organisation, group or workplace; by simply reflecting on and writing up a short story of change and sending it back to SAO; or by forwarding this information to other people and/or organisations who may be interested in participating. For more detailed information on the project and its methodology or workshops, contact: (07) 3891 5866 or angela@sao.clriq.org.au Visit the SAO website: <http://www.sao.clriq.org.au/>

The ACSJC is now taking orders for the Statement. An order form is available on the ACSJC website: <http://www.socialjustice.catholic.org.au>

SERIES PAPER: CATHOLICS AND NATURE: TWO HUNDRED YEARS OF ENVIRONMENTAL ATTITUDES IN AUSTRALIA

Concern for the environment has played a significant role in the Catholic Church in Australia since the 19th century. Fr Charles Rue SSC traces the development of environmental thought in Australian Catholicism. The paper points out that increasing awareness of and concern over environmental issues led the Australian Catholic Bishops Conference to establish Catholic Earthcare Australia, which makes a significant contribution to the environmental debate.

The message of ecological justice came first from the Third World churches – "if you want to look after the poor, look after the earth". While describing early developments in Catholic attitudes to the natural world, Fr Rue suggests a modern-day turning point was Pope John Paul II's "loud endorsement" of Catholic involvement in environmental issues as an essential part of faith in his 1990 World Day of Peace Message. The Pope named the ecological crisis as a deep spiritual issue, linking both the glory and the suffering of nature directly to God.

What Pope John Paul II named as "ecological conversion" has brought into focus the fact that both authentic human fulfilment and a spirituality that upholds it take Earth seriously. Respect for the integrity of the natural world is integral to showing respect for humanity.

JULY 2 - 8 NATIONAL ABORIGINAL & ISLANDER WEEK

Every year, in the first week of July, Indigenous Australians throughout the country celebrate together the survival of Aboriginal peoples, the continuation of Aboriginal culture and the contribution that Indigenous Australians make to the nation. A special day for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people was first observed in 1938. This National Aboriginal and Islander Day Of Commemoration evolved into its current week-long celebrations. The aim of the week is to promote the rich Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander heritage to all people on a regional, national, and even international level. It is also a celebration of the uniqueness of Indigenous traditions and cultures and recognition of the on-going struggle for justice and equality for Indigenous people. NAIDOC developed during the late 1950's as a way for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples to bring issues that concerned them to the attention of governments and the general public. NAIDOC is now used widely to refer to all the events and celebrations that go on during National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Week.

JULY 2 ABORIGINAL & TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER SUNDAY

In 1994, the Catholic Church officially designated the first Sunday in July as Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Sunday, thus encouraging Catholics locally to focus their worship on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and their culture and the issues of social justice they represent.

Each year, the National Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Catholic Council produces a Resource Kit for Parishes and Schools to use for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Sunday.

Aboriginal Sunday is a time for celebration of a unique and beautiful culture and a time to recognise that much still has to happen in our nation for true recognition of that culture and for a real and lasting justice for our peoples. It is my hope and the hope of NATSICC that celebration of Aboriginal Sunday will help to re-ignite, or re-birth, the movement of National Reconciliation between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians.

JULY 12 ABORIGINAL & TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER FLAGS

The Aboriginal flag was designed by Harold Thomas, a Luritja man from Central Australia. It was created as a symbol of unity and national identity for Aboriginal people during the land rights movement of the early 1970s. Gary Foley took the flag to the east coast where it was promoted and eventually recognised as the official flag of the Australian Aboriginal people. The flag was first flown at Victoria Square in Adelaide on National Aborigines Day, 12 July, 1971. The flag was chosen as the official flag for the Aboriginal Tent Embassy in Canberra and was first flown there in 1972. In 1995, the Australian Government proclaimed the flag as an official 'Flag of Australia' under section 5 of the Flags Act.

The symbolic meaning of the flag colours (as stated by Mr Harold Thomas) are:

- * Black represents the Aboriginal people of Australia
- * Red represents the red earth, the red ochre and a spiritual relationship to the land.
- * Yellow represents the Sun, the giver of life and protector.

The Torres Strait Islander Flag was created as a symbol of unity and identity for Torres Strait Islander peoples, designed by the late Bernard Namok, then a 15 year old school student from Thursday Island. It was the winning entry from a design competition held as part of a Cultural Revival Workshop, organised by The Islands Coordinating Council in January 1992. It was recognised by the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission in June 1992 and given equal prominence with the Aboriginal flag. In July 1995, it was recognised by the Australian Government as an official 'Flag of Australia' under the Flags Act.

Each part of the flag is designed to represent something about Torres Strait Island culture:

- * Green represents the land
- * Blue represents the sea
- * White represents peace
- * Black represents the Indigenous peoples.

The dhari (headdress) represents Torres Strait Island people and the five pointed star represents the five major Island groups. The star also represents navigation, as a symbol of the seafaring culture of the Torres Strait.
